THE HOME TOWNERS
THE GREEN LIGHTS ARE ON IN McKINNEY AND COLLIN COUNTY

LAST MESSAGE FROM 'DEMOCRACY OF GRAVE'

The following is the concluding paragraphs in the will of the late Amon G. Carter, publisher of The Fort Worth Star-Telegram, and noted Texan, who died recently. Your Home Towners were friends of Mr. Carter for many years, and the following expresses his feeling toward his fellow man. The paragraphs follow:

"I trust and believe, and I express the earnest hope and wish that my children who are dear to me (dearer to me, along with my wife, than all other things of earth) will concur in heart as well as in mind in the provisions of this will, and I further express the abiding hope that none of its provisions will offend their sense of proportion or the ideals of the spirit that they entertain with respect to the obligations that each one of us owes to his fellow man.

"I have learned while climbing the steep path of fortune and I have come to realize that they who acquire wealth are more or less stewards in the application of that wealth to others of the human family who are less fortunate than themselves. Year in and year out, it has been borne in upon me that money alone, nor broad acres, nor newspapers, nor flocks and herds, nor estates of oil and gas hidden in the recesses of this planet can, of themselves, bear testimony to the fine quality of man or woman.

"As a youth, I was denied the advantages which go with the possession of money and, therefore, I am endeavoring to give to those who have not such advantages but who aspire to the higher and finer attributes of life those opportunities which were denied to me.

"I am a part of the heritage of Texas. Its pioneer spirit that peopled the wide spaces and laid the foundations of a happy future comes down to me in the strain of the blood, and I wish to share it with others who would make Texas their home and their inspiration.

"The grave is a democracy for all of human kind. There is no rank in death—the pauper laid away in an unlettered grave carries with him as much of worldly goods as the rich man whose body is clad in silken shroud. Neither the winding sheet nor the shroud is lined with purse or pocket. The hand that in life grips with a miser's clutch and the ear that refuses to heed the pleading voice of humanity forfeits the most precious of all gifts of earth and of heaven—the happiness within the heart that comes of doing good to others."

WITH MORE stop signs being erected in McKinney, the police department are going to make it tougher and tougher on those that fail to stop. To fail to stop is a very dangerous thing and can cause wrecks and more wrecks. $10.00 is the fine for not stopping—so if you want to make a slight donation to the City of M'Kinney to the tune of $10.00 just run a stop sign.

Over In Denton County, Sheriff Wiley Barnes states that drunks and reckless speeders are endangering lives on Lake Dallas. People who drink have no business getting into boats and we are going to introduce all drunks in boats to "our best cell." Recklessness and misconduct will drive away a great amount of revenue if permitted to run unhampered. How right you are Mr. Sheriff over in Denton County. And unless we take every possible precaution in Collin County they might try to take over our own Lavon Lake. It can be done and will be done unless we have police protection at the lake. It's getting later than you think, Dear Brothers and Sisters.

An old landmark, the 8-room, two story home occupied by Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Wingfield, and family, four miles East of Celina, was destroyed by fire last week. The house and all contents including clothing of the famly, were burned. The farm is operated by T. M. Hughes Sr. of Prosper.

A brief history of the old homestead appeared in last week's issue of the Celina Record, part of which we reproduce as follows:

The fire was caused by explosion of a kerosene cookstove, on which Mrs. Wingfield was preparing the noon meal. Fire spread quickly over the room and though Mr. Wingfield fought the blaze for a time he was soon forced to abandon the effort, and the house burned to the ground. The Celina fire truck came to the scene of the fire, but the blaze had gained too much headway for the firemen's efforts to be of any help.

The Wingfield family has moved to a house a quarter-mile west on the Lee Lewis farm.

The house was one of the area's landmarks, standing just east of Wilson creek a hundred yeards north of the old Celina-McKinney road. It was the birthplace of Mrs. W. H. Stallcup of Celina, and Mrs. Stallcup said her father, W. C. Francis, built it in the middle 1880's shortly after he and his wife moved to the Celina community from near Caddo Mills.

Mrs. Stallcup told of a spring near the creek west of the house, which the family used as a source of water when she was a child. "It was the best water I ever tasted," she declared. Her father arranged a windlass which was used to pull a bucket of the cool, sweet spring water from the spring to the house. Mrs. Stallcup's mother used the boxed-in spring as a cooling place for her milk and butter, and watermelons when sunk in the bubbling water of the spring to cool.

35 POUNDS OF CATFISH FROM LAKE LAVON

Tubby Moore's
McKINNEY MARINE SUPP
RS. & FISHING S

Lake Lavon is really becoming a "Fisherman's Paradise" as may be noted from the nice string of fish exhibited above by Tobby Moore. The 18 chanel catfish were caught this week at Lavon just Northeast of Clearlake Park, on the North side of the lake. Mr. Moore caught them on a trot line, the total number weighing 35 pounds. The largest in the lot weighed 5 pounds.

Mr. Moore, who owns and operates a grocery store and filling station, as well as the McKinney Marine Supply Company here, on North Tennessee Street, is an avid fisherman. He states that the fish at Lavon are now big enough for catching, and are bitting good at this particular time. Quite a number of local fishermen have been seeking the finny tribe at Collin County's new recreational spot and many of them are reporting good luck, thus far.

DEHORNING RECOMMENDED FOR BEEF CATTLE

Horns and choice beef carcases do not go together. Feeders having horns, says U. D. Thompson, extension animal husbandman, do not feed out so well as dehorned cattle.

Badly bruised carcasses are usually found in shipments of horned animals. These bruises detract from the appearance of the carcasses and lower their sale value. Aside from the damage to the meat, the hide is frequently damaged as a result of cattle goring one another.

In general, dehorned cattle usually command better prices in the market place than horned cattle of similar quality and condition, Thompson adds.

SPOT OILING OF JOHNSON GRASS GIVES 99 PERCENT KILL

Farmers can now rid of Johnsongrass completely without swinging a hoe.

Spot application of diesel and naptha-type oil sprays is proving a practical answer to row crop control of Johnsongrass. At College Station four treatments of such oils killed 99 percent of all Johnsongrass in cotton stands in one season. Four trips over a similar field with hand hoes eliminated only 44 percent of the grass.

Homer E. Rea, agronomist for the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station who has been working with various Johnsongrass killers believes that successful spot oiling of Johnsongrass is highly significant.

"It does away with intensive hand labor methods which few farmers can afford these days," says Rea.

Varsol 1, Lightfoot 23, No-weed Oil, Lion and Flit 38 are among commercial preparations to use. An ordinary knapsack sprayer applying a half and half mixture of one of these oils and diesel oil will do the job, Rea explained. About one-third of a teaspoon of oil mixture on the stem near the base of each plant is sufficient for results. Best kills are obtained on young grass.

Within hours after the initial treatment Johnsongrass usually is shriveled and killed to ground level. To completely eradicate the roots and prevent later resprouting repeated oilings at intervals of seven to 10 days may be necessary. This usually means four to six treatments. Cost of the application figures at $14.10 an acre, counting oil and labor. The cost, of course, will vary with the amount of oil used and the intensity of Johnsongrass infestation.

ATTRACTIVE HOME LAWNS DON'T JUST HAPPEN

Attractive home lawns don't just happen—they are the results of considerable time and effort.

Establishing a new lawn requires the use of adapted grasses, proper watering, mowing, fertilization and drainage.

Texas home owners have a choice of two popular lawn grasses. Bermuda grass is most widely adapted to growing conditions of the state. The other specie, broad leaved St. Augustinegrass, is recommended in the Eastern and Southern areas of the state. Buffalo, perennial ryegrass and Kentucky Bluegrass are varieties of lesser importance.

A sandy loam type soil high in organic matter forms an ideal foundation for lawns. Most soils need more organic matter. Its addition in the form of peat, compost or well decomposed gin trash, sawdust or leaf mold is suggested.

To insure proper drainage and smoothness, most lawns will require some grading and leveling.

If the lawn is seeded, use high quality seed of a single grass, not a lawn mixture. Spread seed evenly. Sodding, laying grass in solid strips, is expensive and time consuming but gives the desired grass cover quickly. If you sprig, the grass runners should be packed firmly into the soil.

Sprinkle lightly and frequently until the new grasses become established. As they take a foothold, water less often and increase the amount.

Mowing at a height of one and one-half to two inches will encourage spreading and will control invading weeds.

And, don't overlook fertilizers in the establishment of your new lawn. A soil test will determine which plant nutrients and in what quanities are neded. County Agents can furnish complete information on sampling the soil.

RECIPES FOR OUTDOOR SUPPER

Grilled Hamburger Patties

1 pound ground chuck
1 teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons minced onion
¼ teaspoon pepper

Lightly toss ground meat with other ingredients. Shape into 4 or 5 patties and grill over hot coals (no flame). Cook about 5 minutes on each side turning with tongs.

ROASTED CORN

Shuck corn and remove silks. Place each ear on a square of heavy-duty alumnium foil and brush with melted butter. Sprinkle with salt and pepper. Wrap, folding the ends up to secure the foil. Place ears in hot coals (not red) and roast them 10 to 15 minutes, turning several times. Or, place the wrapped ears on the grate and roast for 20 to 25 minutes, turning several times.

POTATOES IN FOIL

Scrub potatoes and rub with bacon drippings. Wrap each potato in a square of heavy-duty aluminum foil. Tuck the wrapped potatoes among the hot (not red) coals. Times will vary with size of potatoes, but 50 to 60 minutes is usually necessary for a medium-sized potato. Turn once or twice. Pierce with fork to test for doneness.

TREAT STAINS, HEAT RINGS AND SCRATCHES ON FURNITURE . . . .

Quick, "first-aid" treatment can often hide stains or marks and prevent costly damage to furniture, according to Extension home management specialists.

Wipe up spots of perfume, medicines and beverages containing alcohol as quickly as possible. If the stain is light, try to rub it out with a small amount of silver polish or moistened cigar ash.

Another good home remedy is to make a paste of one tablespoon of linseed oil or lemon oil and one tablespoon of rottenstone, which you can get from your paint store. Apply the stain with a soft cloth, rubbing with the grain of the wood. Cigarette burns which are not too dep may be treated in the same way.

White blemishes from hot dishes are difficult to remove. Try camphorated oil. Stroke the spot lightly with a soft cloth moistened with the oil. Dry immediately with a dry, ninlinty cloth. This method can also be used for water rings.

An easy home remedy for scratches on dark woods is the oil from a walnut, pecan, butternut or Brazil nut to stain the scratch. Cut the nut in half and rub well into the scratch.

CHOOSE COLORS FOR A REASON . . . .

Thinking of doing some painting papering, or refurnishing this summer- If so, choose colors for a reason—to get the special effects that you may want and at the same time provide a comfortable, pleasant background for everything living.

Began by analyzing the room, suggest Extension home furnishings specialists. Its use, shape and exposure will determine colors best suited.

Decide how you want the room to look. Will it be light and gay, restful or dramatic? Do you want it to be predominantly warm or cool?

A good color plan has few colors, usually no more than two or three—in different values and intensities. The best color schemes grow from a dark color, a light color and a bright color. Black, white and grey are not considered colors, but are often used to give a needed accent of light or dark.

Choose your favorite color if you do not need to consider the color of colors of furnishings which you must keep. Or select a picture or print which has your chosen colors and plan your scheme from that.

Good proporation of the different colors is important. This means that your color scheme will be definitely dark or light and that either warm or cool colors will predominate. Proportions of 60 percent of area for one color, 30 percent for a second color and 10 percent for accent, insure good proportion.

When you place the colors in a room, choose the color for the largest areas first—floor coverings walls and large upholstered pieces. In most cases, these should be your most livable colors, or colors that are greyed in intensity. Next, choose colors for small upholstery and the window treatment. This treatment may be a blend of the room colors, or match or contrast with the walls. Lastly, choose your colors for accessories and small areas—pillows, lamps, ash trays, etc. Usually, this accent color is the brightest color.

FROM WHEATFIELD TO POWER PLANT -- IN 20 MONTHS

The pictures above, and the adjoining write up appeared in the June issue of The Texas Utility News, published by, and for, the employes of the Texas Power & Light Company.

The top picture shows the wheat field, site of the plant, September 1953. The plant area has been stripped the railroad filled started. Other views show the plant at the half-way mark in April, 1954; turbine erection was protective canopy overhead; colling tower with blowdown reserve basin behind the tower; 138,000-volt switchyard; air conditioned service building which contains offices, laboratory, shower room, meeting room and kithen (insert), and at the bottom is pictured the Steam Electric Generating Station as it was put into operation.

The plant is located on approximately 250 acres of land, about half way between Frisco and Prosper, in West Collin.

Collin is the third major power plant to be completed by the Company within the last two years Lake Creek(McLennan County) was put in operation in 1953, and River Crest (Red River County) in 1954. In addition, since the war, smaller plants have been located at Gainesville, Clarksville and Brownwood, and capacities have bee increased at Waco and Trinidad.

COOLING SYSTEM UNIQUE

Although Collins follows the new "outdoor" design of Lake Creek and River Crest, the new plant is different in that it is the only one of the TP&L system to use a cooling tower instead of a lake to cool water for the condenser. This tower, constructed of redwood lumber, is 40 feet high, 86 feet wide and 211 feet long. It has 14 cells and fourteen 22-foot diameter fans. It cools the condenser-circulating water at the rate of 85,000 gallons per minute, after it passes through the condenser.

The station's generator has the largest capacity of any of the TP&L system. This turbo-generator has a total weight of more than a million pounds and is installed on a concrete pedestal.

During installation the unit was covered by a galvanized steel canopy designed by Texas Power & Light merchanical engineers. It is built in seven sections and can be located on tracks as needed over the unit. It measures 30 feet across the 15 feet high at the center. Both the canopy and tracks can be moved and stored in an unconspicious space when not needed for maitenance work on the unit.

BOILER IS THE LARGEST

Steam is supplied to the turbine at 1450 pounds per square inch pressure and at 1000 degrees F. temperature. After the steam has passed through several stages of the turbine, its pressure drops to 450 pounds per square inch and its temperature drops to 715 degrees F., due to "work" performed on the turbine blades.

When this pressure and temperature are reached, the steam is returned to the boiler and is reheated to 1000 degrees F. at the same pressure of 450 pounds, and once again goes to the turbine to pas through the remaining stages.

The main steam line is 11½ inches inside diameter and 1.695 inches thick. It is made of forged chrome-moly steel bored with loose tolerance. This bored pipe is covered with 5 inch insulation surrounded with an aluminum jacket to hold the heat.

The re-heat lines are 24 inches in diameter and are made of welded plate 1¼ inches thick. They also are covered with insulation and aluminum jackets.

Steam to drive the turbine is generated in a boiler with a cpaciy of 1,150,000 pounds of steam an hour at 1,550 pounds per square inch pressure and 1005 degrees F. Temperature. This is ithe largest capacity boiler on the TP&L system. It may be fired with either natural gas or fuel oil, and is designed to permit conversion to use solid fuel in the future. The installation weighs over 7 million pounds is 170 feet high and has two steel stacks nine and a half feet in diameter and 195 feet high.

After the steam leaves the turbine, it is condensed in a twin shell surface condenser having 90,000 square feed of cooling surfae. The steam is the ondensed and the heaters. This is done by three 2000 h. p. boiler feed pumps, two of which are used in normal operation.

ALL FACILITIES MOST MODERN

Operators control the operation of the equipment and the switching of load on outgoing lines from an air-conditioned room with large, tinted glass thermopane windows located on the top floor of the three-story control building.

Offices of the operationg personnel, an assembly room a laboratory with the latest testing equipment, a shower room and an all-electric kitchen are located in an air-conditioned brick service building.

A steel framed warehouse with corrugted absestos roof provides storage space and contains a machine shop for repairing and maintaining equipment.

GENERATOR HAS HIGH CAPACITY

The 110,000-Kilowatt generator produces electricity at 18,000 volts, the highest on the TP&L system. A 400-Kw, 375-volt, 1191-rpm exciter is geared to the 3600-rpm generator shaft. Hydrogen is used in cooling the generator startor and rotor.

The power for operating station auxiliaries is supplied through a 10,000-kva, 18,000 to 4160-volt 3-phase unit auxiliary transformer connected to the generator bus. A 10000-kva, 138,000 to 4160-volt standby auxiliary transformer is provided to supply auxiliary power for start-up during periods when the generator is not in service.

The power, generated at 18,000 volts, is stepped-up to 138,000 volts through the main transformer and supplies to the switchyard bus through a 1200-ampere, 138-kv, 3-500,000-kva oil circuit breaker. Similar oil circuit breakers connect the 138-ky bus to the two outgoing trasmission lines, one extending to Liggett substation and one to Payne substation. The transmission lines are of 795,000 cm AC SR conductors, the largest on the system.

The two 90,000-kva, 17,100 to 128,000-volt, 3 phase main power transformer operates in a parallel to step-up the generator voltage to transmission level. These transformers, which are the largest on the TP&L system, are cooled by forced oil circulation through the core, oils and radiators with fans on the radiators.

PERSONNEL "HOME GROWN"

Every permanent employee at Collin, with the exception of one mechanic and one electrician helper, was transferred to the plant from some other TP&L generating station and has received training for his job from within the Company. The electrician helper was transferred from the Transmission division.

E. W. Rainey, plant superintendent, started with Texas Power & Light in 1948 as an assistant merchanical engineer at Trinidad. During the next five years he was in the Power department in Dallas, back to Trinidad and then to Lake Creek in the same capacity. In August, 1954, he went to River Crest as mechanical engineer and in March 1955, to Collin as plant superintendent.

Mr. Rainey is a native of Dalhart and received his B. S. degree in Mechanical Engineering from Texas Technological College, Lubbock, in 1947.

C. M. Shaw eletrical engineer, assists the plant superintendent with the electrical portion of the maintence and operation of the plant. He began his association with Texas Power & Light Company as an electrical engineer at Trinidad in August, 1953, and holds a B. S. degree in Electrical Engineering from North Carilona State College.

J. E. Biles, mechanical engineer assists the plant superintendent with the mechanical maintenance and operation of the plant. Mr. Biles stated his service with Texas Power & Light Company as an assistant mechanical engineer at Trinidad in 1953 and was transferred to Collin as mechanical engineer in February, 1955. He received his B. S. degree in Mechanical Engineering from Texas A & M College in 1951.

The operating group consists of four shifts with each shift having four men headed by a shift foreman, a control operator, an equipment operator and an auxiliary operator.

The maintenance group is composed of two mechanics, two mechanic helpers, one electrician and one electrician helper.

In addition to the above there is a laboratory tehnician, an instrument technician, a clerk, a stenographer and a janitor.

Injunction Asked In Desegregation

Microfilm Service & Sales Co. P. O. Box 8066

DALLAS, Tex. (INS).—A group calling itself conservative Texans has resolved to ask the State Attorney General to seek an injunction against the Board of Regents of the University of Texas and the School Board of El Paso to prevent admission of Negro students to the schools.

Meeting in Dallas yesterday afternoon with the previously announced purpose of organizing to preserve American constiutional government, most of the time was used in discussing de-segregation.

R. A. Stuart of Fort Worth, former State Senator said in introducing the resolution asking an injunction suit be filed:

"Let us ask the Attorney General to assert the constitutional rights of the white peeople. The Supreme Court has been asserting it for the colored people."

Circuit Judge Tom B. Brady of Brookhaven, Miss., [illegible] that the Justices of the S[illegible]ourt should be impeached [illegible] decline to resonsider the [illegible]gregation ruling. His remarks were applauded loudly.

About 250 persons attended the meeting.

A few hours after the meeting the Daallas School Board, which had been asked recently by the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People to announce its plans about racial integration in the Dallas schools, said it will continue a study of the matter, but will not heed or permit under pressure.

In a formal statement the board said any suggestion from all qualified individuals or groups will be given serious consideration.

At the same time the Fort Worth School Board there agreed it will not order racial integration this fall in Fort Worth public schools. Representatives of the NAACP asked the board to take immediate steps to open the schools to Negroes. The board replied the request will be considered seriousiy but because of the many complex problems involved the administrative offices of the schools should be instructed to open in September on the same basis as in the past.

The Eagle Mount School District in Tarrant County, however, will admit Negro pupils when schools open. The district, with 189 registered pupils last term, is the first in Tarrant County to announce such action. Only one Negro family with a schoolage child is reported to live in the district.

Young Woman Paralyzed By Polio Cured

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (INS). — A young woman paralyzed by polio was reported today to have been put back on her feet by a Kansas City osteopath using a treatment he said was discovered by a Catholic Nun.

The story was told by the North Kansas City press dispatch, a weekly newspaper. Its editor, John Grinstead, said he witnessed the treatment — described as the "Marian Method" — given Mrs. Bonnie Lou Campbell, 20, at the Immaculate Conception Clinic by Dr. E. J. Ackley, of Kansas City.

"After only six days of Marian method treatment," Grinstead wrote, "Mrs. Campbell stood alone for the first time since striken, with only a crutch to give her balance."

The press dispatch story continued:

"Dr. Ackely offered to prove to the world in a public demonstration that the Marian Method when applied in acute stages of polio would not only restore the patient but would do so without the use of braces, devices, or iron lungs.

"Mrs. Campbell was striken with polio in Ellinwood, Sept 14, 1954. Her phyician, Dr. Roy Leiker, sent her to St. Rose's Hospital, Great Bend, Kansas, on September 15, at which time she was paralyzed in both extremities."

Youth Leads Police To $10,000 Dope Cache

TULSA, Okla (INS). — Tulsa police today were holding a 21-year-old Oklahoma City youth for questioning about a burglary after he led them to a roadside cache near Edmond where $10,000 worth of narcotics were hidden.

Harold Lee Rosebrough took police to the spot where the narcotics were hidden as he was being returned from Fort Worth where he was arrested Sunday night.

Fort Worth officers said he attempted suicide by taking an overdose of sleeping pills and while in a delerium mumbled about several crimes he has committed. He later signed a statement admitting burglaries of a drug store and doctor's office in Tulsa and other breakings at Joplin Mo., Shreveport, La., and three at Fort Worth. He was being questioned about a pharamy burglary in Tulsa.

Police said the cache along a fence row five and a half miles northeast of Edmond contained bottles of barbituates, morphine, opium and other narcotics.

Rosebrough beat a tavern burglary rap in Tulsa, June 13 when the judge dismissed charges after the youth's attorney claimed he had been "roughed up" by police to obtain a confession.

The Health Department immediately carried through plans for local distribution, beginning today.

Last April some 500,000 Texas school children were inoculated with the first round of free vaccine. The number of receive the second shot will be smaller due to the difficulty of carrying out the program while school is not in session.

Theft Trial Of Bascom Giles Is Continuing

AUSTIN, Tex. (INS). — The theft trial of Bascom Giles continued today without delay over the objpections of defense lawyers who claim the state has commited a mistrial.

Judge Charles O. Betts overruled a defense motion late yesterday asking him to discharge the jury because of "inflammatory" an "hearsay" evidence given by a witness, Sam McCollum of Brady.

The judge also refused, at least tentatively, to throw out or restrict McCollum's testimony as evidence in the case.

McCollum has testified that he listened to a telephone conversation between Giles and B. R. Sheffield, both of whom are accused of stealing $6,800 from the state.

He said the conversation indicated that Giles was to receive $15,000 from the sale to the state of a ranch in Dimmit County.

McCollum, who from time to time served as Sheffield's attorney on veterans land deals, was blasted by the defense for allegely violating confience between client and lawyer.

He was also accused of entering into a "deal" with Attorney General John Ben Shepperd to smear Giles in return for favorable action on a civil suit concerning efforts by a client, L. V. Ruffin, to recover $20,000 he paid the state on two sales that failed.

McCollum hotly denied doing either.

One Killed, 21 Are Injured WhenExpressTrainDerails

BRIDGEPORT, Conn. (INS). — The Pennsylvania Railroad's Federal Express jumped the tracks and plunged down an embankment a mile West of the Bridgeport station today, killing the engineer and injuring 21 passengers.

Service on the New Haven Railroad tracks between New Haven and Norwalk, Conn., was interrupted. Thousands of commuters to jobs in New York City were taken on special busses, forced to drive or obtain other means of transportation.

The train, enroute from Washington to Boston, left the rails at 4:42 A. M. on a curve at Railroad Avenue where the tracks are elevated. The electric-diesel locomotive, a baggage car, and eight coaches left the tracks, and plunged down a 30-foot embankment to a fregiht yard. The derailed cars toppled onto two freight cars. The engine hit a switch engine and a signal light girder. Seven cars remained on the tracks.

A railroad spokesman said the dead engineer was Arthur Orteneau of New Haven. Fifteen of the injured were taken to St. Vincent's Hospital in Bridgeport, and five to Bridgeport Hospital. Three persons were seriously hurt.

The toll was not a heavy as it might have been because the train carried five empty coaches up front. Most of the passengers were in the rear seven cars.

Civic Leaders Hope Curfew To Be Lifted

WICHITA FALLS, Tex. (INS)—Civic leaders in Wichita Falls are hopeful today that the 9 p.m. curfew which keeps all airmen from Sheppard Air Force Base out of the city at night, will be lifted in a few days.

A special committee has been named to work out ways of easing the tension between civilian teenage boys and airmen which has brought on individual fights and several gang clashes.

Meeting with city officials yesterday afternoon, officers from the base said Wichita Falls was not capable of coping and controlling the situation because the police force was under manned.

They also told of instances in which it was reported airmen had been arrested without cause and had been abused.

Acting Base Commander George Henry said the 9 p.m. curfew will remain in effect until it is certain the trouble is under full control.

C. C. Daniels, chief of police pledged full cooperation but remarked the conditions in Wichita Falls are less tense than in many places where service men are stationed.

Col. Melvin Hollidge told the conference that the curfew was less drastic action than was considered sometime ago. He said there was a suggestion that Wichita Falls be placed completely off-limits for the 16,000 airmen.

Assignment America

By PHYLLIS BATTELLE

Distributed by International News Service

NEW YORK (INS). — American women love classical music—symphony, opera, the ballet — but not enough to buy their own tickets and go it alone. They'd rather be in the company of a masterful man than masterful musicians.

European ladies, on the other hand, will give up dinner, bid adieu to their men, and stand in queues for hours to dream with Debussy or Churn with Tchaikovsky.

"Who is to say which kind of woman is right?" Sighed Maestro Efrem Kurtz, giving the old palms-up, or what're ya gonna do? Gesture.

"To a man who makes his business conducting symphonies, like myself, the European woman seems to have a very likeable approach. However, for a husband who likes to go to night baseball games, the American girl would seem to be smarter."

Kurtz, who left the Houston symphony 18 months ago to rove Europe conducting its largest orchestras, insists that women the world over have the same sensitive urge to listen to fine music. "It's just that in Europe, their urge takes the form of a terrific drive.

"The average European man is like the average American man. When he is weary, after a day's work, he will go in for sleep or light entertainment rather than visit a concert hall. Well, the women won't stand for it.

"They will fight for their musical enjoyment. They will gather together however many pennies they have saved, and will collect in lines outside the hall—sometimes bringing their knitting and handiwork—until they get up to the box office and can buy a standing-room ticket."

Kurtz dipped his head—a handsome head, half gray, half bald—and said, "I bow to them. Women everywhere."

The Russian-born conductor was noted in this country for building the Kansas City philharmonic and the Houston symphony, as well as for conducting every large and distinguished U.S. orchestra, before he took off for Europe suddenly. He has now accepted a post, beginning next fall, as permanent conductor of the Liverpool Philharmonic, and will return to Europe next month after conducting several concerts at the Lewisohn Stadium in New York and Robin Hood Dell in Philadelphia.

"It will be in many ways painful to leave the United States," he says, "but I have come to the conclusion that I am not a large-city man. The thump-thumps, bump-bumps, whack-smack noises distract me." He has several "retreats" in Europe: In the mountains of Switzerland, in the outskirts of Liverpool, and in the little town where Puccini was born in Italy.

Now that he has spent more than a year traveling as guest conductor for symphonies from Israel through France and Belgium and Scandinavia and Holland, he can say—can there are "three great orchestras" in Europe compared to the finest symphonies in the U.S.

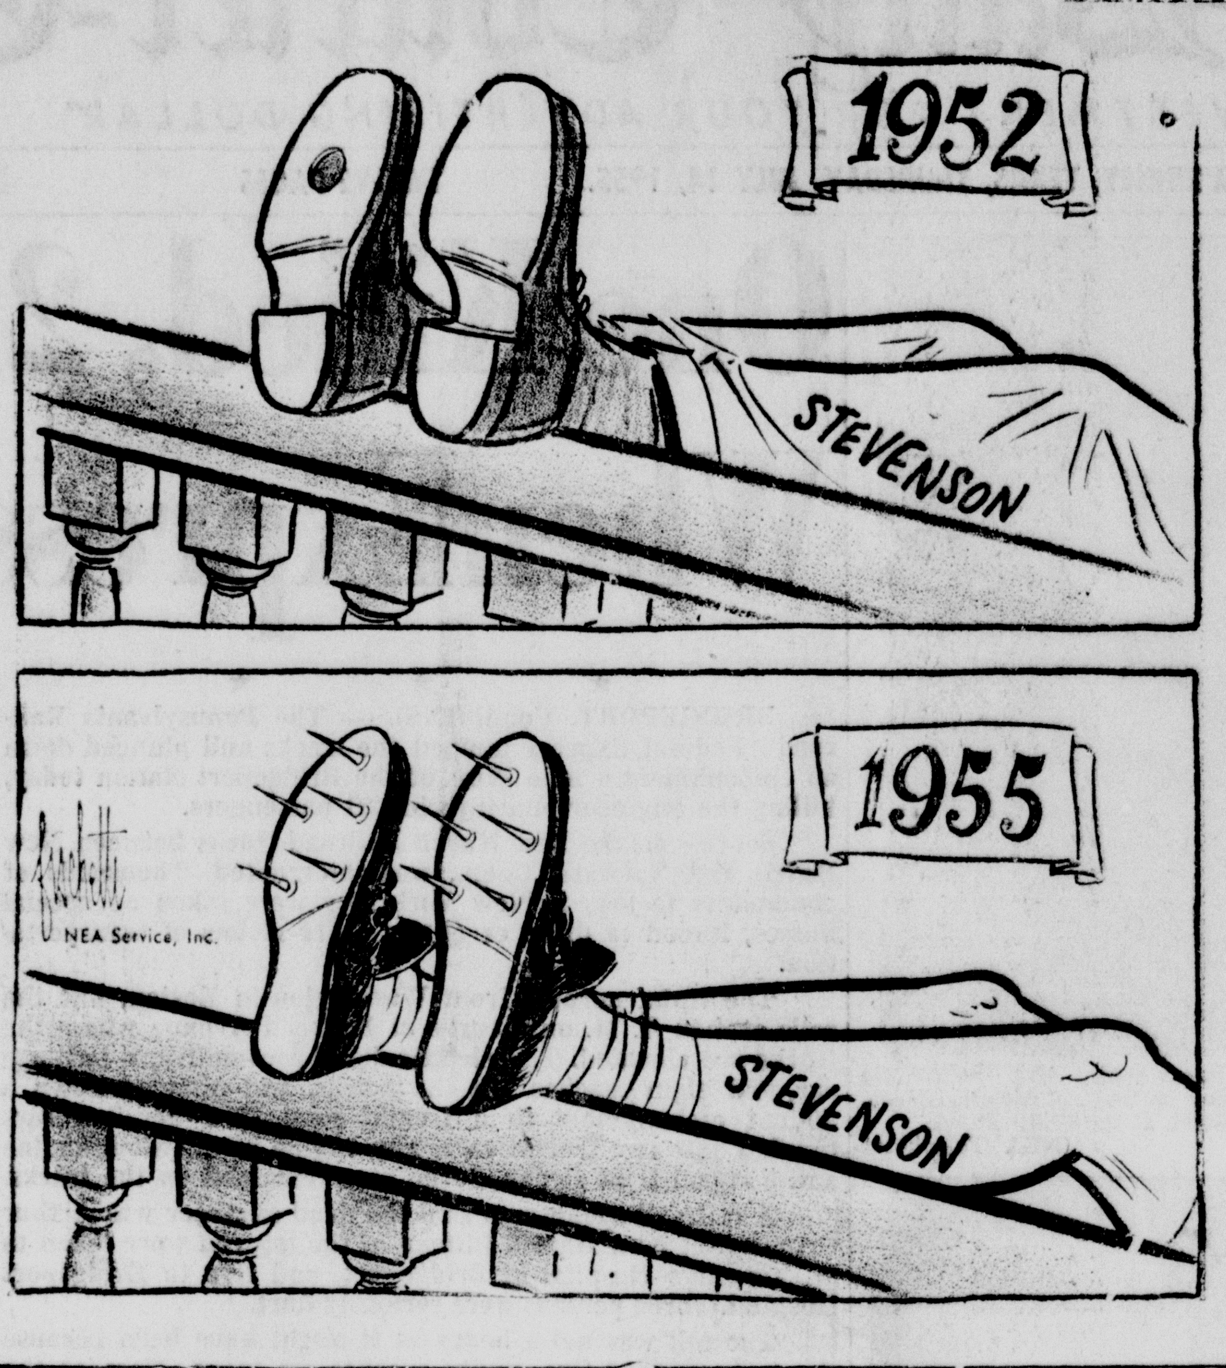
"But they are different. They are equally brilliant, and equally technically perfect, but they sound different." Partly this is because of the variance in cultures, and partly because the individual instruments are constructed differently—like flutes, which are made of wood in some European countries, but are made of metals in others.

But fine music is fine music everywhere. Just as good audiences are good audiences, and beautiful women are beautiful women.

"You study music—or for that matter, women—and you will find that it is the same in every land," said Efrem, with a pixie smile. "No matter where you go, music and women are just like the weather . . .

"There are some refreshing, lovely days and some gloomy, bad ones. Both are needed to make it a wonderful world."

OLDER AND WISER



WASHINGTON Farm Roundup

WASHINGTON (INS). — President Eisenhower has told Congress that as of June 30 the government has sold, bartered and given away a billion, 200 million dollars worth of farm surpluses under special legislation passed last year.

This total sum, however, represents the actual amount the commodity credit corporation has invested in the commodities and for the most part substantial losses have been taken on them.

For example, 21 contracts with 17 countries call for the sale of surpluses which cost CCC nearly 469 million dollars. The foreign governments have agreed to pay for these in their own currencies to the tune of less than 361 million.

Moreover, nearly half of the latter amount is being loaned back to the purchasing countries to be used for trade and economic development purposes.

A ceiling of one billion dollars originally was placed on the program and it was intended to operate over a three-year period.

After less than a year, however the Senate Agriculture Committee voted to raise the maximum amount by one-half billion dollars and Congress is expected to approve.

The record to date, as far as market value is concerned, leans heavily to disposals of cotton and wheat — the two most burdensome surpluses.

The president told Congress that of the approximately 361 million dollars worth of commodities sold or committed for salt at market value, cotton accounts for more than 124 millions and wheat for 93 millions.

It was also disclosed that the government has arranged to barter 281 million dollars worth of surpluses, mostly from strategic materials to be added to the national stockpile.

Such deals have been made with 23 friendly countries all the way from Austria to Korea and Peru. There was no mention in the report of what commodities this country has received in these exchanges.

As it was originally written, the law required that at least half of the commodities sent overseas under the program should move in American-owned vessels.

It now seems likely that this session of Congress will remove that provision.

In a letter transmitting the report, Mr. Eisenhower said the 10 months of experience in administering the law is being used as the basis for a study of the whole problem of disposing of farm surpluses.

Mariners claim that skin divers will find it rough going because the hulk of the clipper is now believed to be buried at least 10 feet deep in the ocean bottom sand.

BIG LEAGUE . . .
● BASEBALL ●

By TONY GALLI

NEW YORK (INS). — The American and National League pacesetters peered nervously over their shoulders at a couple of onrushing contenders today as the second half of the major league baseball season began in earnest.

The Boston Red Sox and Milwaukee Braves currently are the hottest teams going and soon may be breathing down the respective backs of the New York Yankees and Brooklyn Dodgers.

The Sox are in fourth place but their 26 victories in the last 32 games have pulled them to within seven games of the Yanks and they could wind up in second place by the weekend.

The Braves are 11½ games back but they're closer than anybody else and threaten to move in should the Brooks falter. The Braves have played the sharpest ball in the National League lately, winning ten of 16 in the past two weeks preceeding the All-Star game.

Despite the Dodgers' seemingly untouchable lead, five clubs still have a chance of catching the flatbushers if one of them can organize the peerless pitching such as the New York Giants flashed in 1951, when they overcome a 13½ game deficit.

For this reason and the fact that Brooklyn's own pitching is complicated by injuries, the Dodgers cannot afford to let up. Roy Campanella, missing from behind the plate since June 28 with an injured left knee, is ready to go again as are Carl Furillo and Sandy Amoros. But Pitchers Carl Erskine, Russ Meyer, Johnny Podres and Karl Spooner still are plagued with assorted ailments.

The Brooks, who have won only eight of their last 17, open a two-game home series with St. Louis as both leagues swing into full activity tonight following the All-Star hiatus.

Milwaukee begins its Eastern swing at Philadelphia, the Chicago Cubs start a two-game series at the Polo Grounds and Cincinnati moves over to Pittsburgh.

The Yankees, who managed to snap out of their longest losing streak in two seasons their last time out, launch a 12-game Western tour tonight.

The bombers, nursing a modest five-game lead, will first try to beat down their closest challengers in a two-game set at Cleveland and then will play a three-game series at Chicago, which trails by six.

The rest of the American League schedule features twi-night double-headers with Washington at Chicago, Baltimore at Kansas City and the Red Sox at Detroit.

FAIR OR FOUL

by JOHN BARRINGTON
International News Service

NEW YORK (INS). — Jack Kramer, the world's greatest tennis player until a chronic sore back forced him to the sidelines, said today he will make a comeback if Wimbledon Champion Tony Trabert can convice him this fall he's ready to turn professional.

Kramer, whose last nationwide pro tour during the winter of 1953-54 turned sour when his back injury curtailed his own participation, said he is all well again and eager to test Tony's game over the 100-or-more matches played by the pros.

"My back feels great," he said, "but I couldn't be tempted to return by anyone but Tony. I'm 33 and he's 25, but our games are a lot alike and I'm really anxious to take him on."

As promoter plus star attraction of the play-for-pay tour, Kramer has, in the past wound up as his own worst enemy. Twice — against Pancho Gonales and against Australia Ace Frank Sedgman —he chilled his own pitch because being a superior player, he couldn't pull his punches and keep it close.

He's fresh out of star attractions now, unless Trabert can win his matches in defence of the Davis Cup and also claim the U. S. Championship at Forest Hills. Kramer said:

"It used to be a Wimbledon champion, which Tony is, could write his own ticket, Now what with television and all, Forest Hillis is more important."

Kramer said an all-victorious Trabert could wangle a deal such as he gave Sedgman in 1952 — a guarantee of $75,000 or a percentage of the receipts.

"You don't have to be a mathematician," he said, "to realize I can't pay him that kind of money and hire a worthwhile opponent — except myself. But you know me well enough to realize I wouldn't put my own record on the line unless I thought I had a good chance."

Kramer's one big worry is that Trabert may be "over-tennised" between now and the U. S. championships.

"Everyone who is promoting any sort of tournament will want him,' Jack explained, "and it is hard to say 'No.' You keep thinking how your appearance makes it possible for other young players to get a start in these tournaments, and you play when actually you'd be better off with a few weeks rest."

Kramer reluctantly admitted, upon questioning, that he is getting a general cold shoulder from U. S. Lawn Tennis Association since he permitted his name to be used a few weeks ago on a magazine article debunking "amateur" tennis.

"I don't want to sound like I'm crying" said Jack. "I told the truth when I said I used to be paid under the table. I don't see how any young tennis player could support a family and devote his time to playing tennis without financial help. It's a hypocritical system, and I'm not ashamed to say so."

A year ago, Kramer was giving his time, gratis, to helping the USLTA develop its junior players. This year, he's on the outside looking in.

"Gosh," he said, "it's their business if they don't want my help. But I sure wouldn't want the development of our young players to be neglected, just because Kramer and the USLTA were giving each other a bad time."

VA is currently in second place with a 13-9 record and the Ramblers are ½ behind with a 13-10 mark in the two clubs' battle for the second spot behind the Anna Coyotes, the first place club.

TEXAS LEAGUE

(By International News Service)

The Dallas Eagles maintained their slim four game first place Texas League lead last night however they had to call on their ace in the hole — John Red Murff — to halt a Fort Worth ninth inning uprising.

The Eagles broke to an early 5-0 lead before the Cats finally jumped on starter Tommy Bowers in the last two frames. Murff, the winningest pitcher in the loop with 21 victories, retired the last two men to give the pace-setters a 5-4 win. Bowers was credited with the win.

San Antonio won easily over Beaumont, 7-1: It was the 14th time in 15 games this season the Missions tripped the Exporters.

Shrevevort teed off for even runs in the first frame and then held off a Houston rally to win 9-5.

Tulsa scored all its run in the first half of the game to take a 7-1 decision from the Oklahoma City Indians.

GET A LIFT WITH POSTURE MENTALLY AND PHYSICALLY

Here is a morale boosting tip passed alonge by a movie director He encourages young stars in the making to stand and move as if they had already achieved stardom. This psychology has the proper bracing effect, both mentally and physically.

Let's put it into effect. Make believe the dress you have on came straight from Paris. How would you stand and walk if you were wearing an imported creation? Certainly not in sagging and self-depreciating posture. Up would come that bump of self-esteem on the top of your head, shoulders would be squared but relaxed and elegantly at ease. The mid-section muscles would be held firmly up and in, with hip muscles pulled down snugly. That's streamlining.

You may not feel quite at ease in dress-up posture, right at first. But practice makes perfect. A little preliminary exercise will restore tone to the big figure controlling muscles and coax shoulders back into lovely line. Try this easy routine:

This is a three-in-one exercise, tones girdle muscles, counteracts sway-back and squares shoulders: Don't sit this one out . . . try it!

Position: Get on knees, then sit back on heels, hands clasped behind back.

Movement: Pull up strongly with the girdle muscles, hold this up-pull, and bend forward, slowly raising clasped hands. Come back up to starting position and repeat exercise 2 or 3 times, slowly.

Here's a stretch to pull the figure out of the dumps . . .

Position: Lying on floor, right knee bent, left leg straight down, arms down at sides, Now pull along the left side, pushing down with the toes, up with the arm—pull!

Now, lie on back and clasp arms over flexed knees. This "rest" exercise is a good posture corrective, particularly for counteracting swayback.

Habitually good postures takes far less energy. The right muscles take over the job of holding the figure to correct alignment. You'll find you can't stand beautifully and feel down in the dumps! So morale building is good posture, in fact, that it can even help snap a gal out of an inferiority complex!

Send long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for illustrated exercise leaflet Get A Lift With Posture. Address request to Ida Jean Kain, care of this newspaper. Post card requests can not be answered.

AboutHollywood

By DOROTHY MANNERS

(While Louella Parsons is on vacation her column will be written by Dorothy Manners).

HOLLYWOOD (INS). — So sold is Columbia on glamorous Kim Novak that Harry Cohn has torn up her contract and given her a brand new deal calling for a whopping increase in salary. And, by way of a bonus, she also gets the Marjorie Oelrichs role oppoite Tyrone Power in "The Eddy Duchin Story."

This is the part formerly touted for Gloria Vanderbilt — no longer in the running in this picture but the studio is still interested in her for something else.

The word is that Kim is terrific in "Panic" proving herself a fine actress as well as a beauty.

The nudest scene ever attempted in a movie (makes Hedy Lamarr's famed old "Ecstacy" bit look overdressed) will be for the European version of "Thunderstorm." And guess whos going to do the peeling? No one other than Linda Chritian who'll make a dash into the ocean minus even a stitch with leading man Carlos Thompson pursuing her!

For the American version of "Thunderstorm," Linda will be clad in a slip.

Red-haired Cara Williams, who gave up her career when she married John Barrymore, Jr., steps back in front of a camera again for the first time in two years when she reports at MGM for "Viva Las Vegas." Formerly this was "Weekend at Las Vegas" and Cara has a featured role with Dan Dailey and Cyd Charisse.

For a love scene with James Mason in "Forever Darling,' Marilyn Maxwell wears a shirt and toreador pants. The pants, very, very tight, were worrying Marilyn.

When she arrived on the set she asked Lucille Ball and Desi Arnez, the star-producers of the comedy, if they didn't think the pants were too snug.

"Not a bit," said Lucille, "what do you think we're paying you all this money for?"

"You've got the wrong Marilyn!" giggled Miss Maxwell.

Victor Mature, seen in the title role of Universal-International's new Technicolor film, "Chief Crazy Horse," prepares to lead his warriors against the invading white men in this exciting scene from the new release. Suzan Ball and John Lund are also starred in the CinemaScope outdoor spectacle.

Hollywood's self - styled "most relaxed" actor says he 's happy to be portraying an Indian in his new movie. He believes that Indians are the only Americans who have made an art out of relaxation.

"A lot of the red men were killed in battles," says Victor Mature , "but I never heard of one of them worrying himself to death."

Mature plays the title role in Universal - International's Technicolor "Chief Crazy Horse," filmed in CinemaScope and opening Thursday at the Ritz Theatre. Suzan Ball and John Lund are co-starred with Mature in the film directed by George Sherman.

Mature, who traveled to Rapid City, South Dakota, for location scenes in "Chief Crazy Horse," says that he has made a lifetime study of relaxation and that he attributes his rise to cinematic stardom to a credo that nothing is so important that it's worth worrying over.

"Chief Crazy Horse had a lot of trouble with the white men out there's no record that he ever had ulcers," says the actor. "Along with his aborginal brethren in the early West, he had the right idea."

While on location for five weeks in South Dakota, Mature had to rise at 4 a. m. daily to be made-up and costumed in time to drive the fifty miles to the location site for 8 a. m. filming.

"I slept while I was in the make-up chair and I slept on the drive out," he says. "I'm relaxed when I get in front of the camera and never worry about my performance."

Mature's passion for the ultimate in relaxation caused considerable comment around the Rapid City public golf course where the actor often knocked off a fast 18 holes in the fading twilight following a hard day on the movie set.

It wasn't because of his relaxed method of play, however. It's just that he seldom bothered to take off his make-up and full Indian Chief costume.

Southeast Collin Town Reports Record-Breaking Building

The record-breaking building pace, set earlier this year in Wylie, was continuing this month with emphasis being placed on new residence construction and the building of additional business porperty.

Nearing completion is another business building owned by Jack Bostic. The structure will be a combination office building and retail store.

The arrangement of the building will permit two or three good-sized office spaces, plus a large store building. The building should be complete within the next ten days. L. T. Durrett has been the contractor.

New home construction in Wylie continues at a fast pace and with the annexation last week of additional territory to be added to the city, interest is expected to mount in this respect.

Rapidly nearing completion is the lovely new home of Mr. and Mrs. Jess Bowden on West Marble Street. The new home has garage. The exterior finish is of three bedrooms with attached attractive light brick and the roof is of white chipped marble.

Another home being built for Mr. and Mrs. Geo. W. Pendergrass, located on North Ballard in the territory recently added to the city. Construction is well along on this home which will have three bed rooms and one and a half baths. The finish will be of pink brick and the house has an attached double garage.

Clyde Parker and L. W. Self have a new brick veneer home under construction on Fourth Street in the Bostic Addition. This home is being built for sale, according to reports and should be completed within the next few weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Combest of McKinney expect to move into their new home on Third Street in the next week. It is a frame house with two bedrooms and is attractively finished in brick trim with a good choice of colors of paint. An unusual feature is a corner entrance to the front of the house.

McKinney Man Writes Article For Radio-Electronics Magazine

The July issue of Radio-Electronics carried an article "An Electronic A. C. Bridge" written by Major Carroll W. Coleman, son of Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Coleman, of McKinney.

Major Coleman, who is now stationed at Macon, Ga., in the Air Force, has been in that branch of the service for 15 years. He attended Boyd High School here, later receiving his high school diploma, as well as college degrees, while studying in the Air Force.

Major Coleman's article in the popular magazine, was illustrated with pictures and diagrams of the electronic A. C. Bridge—extremely accurate ohmmeter which measures resistance and capacitance.

In giving directions for making the A. C. Bridge, Major Coleman's article stated "Although the ohmmeter provides a rapid and direct means for measuring resistance, some other instrument must be used when accuracy to more than two significant figures is desired. An A. C. Bridge provides this accuracy and gives the added advantage of capacitance measurement. The expense of an accurate bridge, however, generally limits is use to laboratory or industrial applications. A sizable proportion of this expense is represented by the decades of precision components, decade switches and decade wiring.

Elimination of these greatly reduces the ecost and complexity of the instrument."

Parr Wins Postponement Of Tax Trial

AUSTIN, Tex. (INS). — George B. Parr has won a postponement of his income tax evasion trial, but has lost an appeal for dismissal of the federal indictment.

Judge Ben H. Rice Jr. yesterday postponed the trial from July 18 to Sept. 6 in Austin.

Parr is accused of evading some $85,000 in taxes for the years 1949, 1950 and 1951.

The Fifth Circuit Court of Appeals at New Orleans denied Parr's appeal for dismissal of the case. However, Judge Rice granted the postponement because one of Parr's lawyers, Everett Looney of Austin is tied up with another trial.

Two-Year-Old Accidently Kills Young Playmate

HOUSTON, Tex. (INS). — Five-months-old Joyce Elaine Smith, daughter of Mrs. Dorothy Smith, died of injuries inflicted by a perfume bottle and stick in the hands of a two-year-old girl.

The infant's mother works at night and yesterday left the baby with a friend who has three children. The friend went to a store. When she returned she found the infant had been hit by the bottle and stick with which the two-year-old had been playing.

Police said today they believed the two-year-old hit the baby in play. They withheld names excapt those of the baby and her mother.

"Operation Skywatch" Has Third Birthday

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (INS). — "Operation Skywatch," the 24-hour plane-spotting program carried out by volunteer ground observers, became nationwide today on its third birthday.

The upturned eye of the civilian corps expanded to 12 southern and Western states to complete the organization that complements the radar surveillance system ringing the country.

The continentail air defense command once replied solely on "skywatch" to alert it to hostile planes. Even now, despite the improvement of radar rings, the unit is necessary.

More than a million volunteers are required to man a programmed 24,000 ground observer post and 73 filter centers.

Gen. Benjamin W. Chidlaw, the first commander-in-chief of the Continentail Air Defense Command, compared "operation skywatch" to the deed of Robert Newman, who hung the lanterns in the steeple of Boston's old North Church to signal Paul Revere.

Maj. Gen. Frederic H. Smith, Jr., now commanding the ADC, continues to promote the high respect for the organization.

His third anniversary remarks term the observer corps as "an evergrowing asset to the air defense of the nation." He adds:

"All of us in the Continental Air Defense Command System commend and thank the hundreds of thousands of patriotic Americans who make this possible."

He urges citizen all over the nation to join "this devoted group of home defenders" for maximum security "against the surprise air attack."

Red General Is Ready To Withdraw Troops

Panmunjom (INS). — A Communist general called a news conference in Panmunjom today and told allied newsmen Chinese troops would pull out of North Korea when United Nations troops pull out of South Korea.

Lt. Gen. Lee Sang Cho, chief Communist representative on the military armistice commission in Korea, indcated the Reds were willing to discuss such a joint withdrawal of troops at any time.

The North Korean general invited allied newsmen to his news conference after parks told them he would consider it a "breach of faith" as they attended, but added he would not "bar, forbit or restrain" any reporters wanting to go.

A similar situation arose at Panmunjom last week and after communicating with U. N. command headquarters in Tokyo Parks said he could not permit allied newsmen to attend Gen. Lee's conference. As a result, none went although most of the reporters involved protested the command decision.

At today's conference, Lee invited all the allied reporters, including some Americans, to visit the North Korean capital of Pyongyang August 15 and help celebrate the 10th anniversary of Korea's liberation from Japanese domination.

Three Newsmen Called By Senate Probers

WASHINGTON (INS). — Three more newsmen were called today in a Senate investigation of charges that Communists wormed their way into New York City's press corps.

Among those summoned before the Senate Internal Security Subcommittee was Ira Henry Freeman, a reporter for the New York Times, who has not been accused of Red activities. Witnesses who were aked if they knew him to be a Communist have replied they did not.

Testimony unrelated to Communism was scheduled from Ansel Talbert of the New York Herald Tribune. Also slated to testify was Hans Bruno Meyer, a former employe of Rais, the U. S. Government's radio station in Berlin.

Freeman was the third New York Times reporter to be called in an investigation which began with the appearance of radio-televison newsman Wnston Burdett on June 29.

Burdett, a Columbia Broadcasting System commentator, identified himself before the Senate subcommittee as a former Communist spy and he named others as fellow Reds at the now-defunct Brooklyn Eagle from 1937 to 1940.

Yesterday, the Times fired Melvin Barnett within hours after he invoked the fifth amendment and refused to say whether he had been a Red prior to 1941. He denied having been one since then.

The New York newspaper guild announced last night it would "do its utmost" to get Barnett reinstated. The guild also said it has "no Communist problem" today and hasn't had one "for a long time."

Shriners Elect Officers Today

CHICAGO (INS). — Shriners will elect officers today and then stage a repeat of a huge parade in Chicago.

The parade will be held tonight and will be a duplicate of the four-hour march in which 25-000 Shriners participated Tuesday.

The only difference will be that participating units will illuminate their colorful vehicles.

Last night former president Harry S. Truman addressed delegates to the 81st Shriner convention and said that peace is more important than anything else facing the world.

He also sad the United Nations is the world's best hope for peace.

The former chief executive stated that any man who has occupied the office of president "always will have my support and my sympathy."

He returned to Kansas City by train last night after watching "Shrinerama" with 58,000 other persons. The feature was a melange of music, fireworks, vaudevile and circus acts and pagentry.

The National flower of the United States is the Goldenrod.

Dulles Flies To Paris For Final Talks

PARIS (INS). — Secretary of State John Foster Dulles flies into Paris today for the final talks on coordinating Western policy at next week's Geneva conference.

Dulles, British Foreign Secretary Harold MacMillan and French Foreign Minister Antoine Pinay will consult over the report worked out during the past week by diplomatic experts of the three powers.

The experts' work was intended to iron out any major policy differences among the Allies before the opening of the parley with the Russians.

Presumably that work was a success, for Dulles told newsmen in Washington yesterday that there was every reason to believe the three Western powers "see eye to eye" on the questions likely to come up at Geneva.

The Secretary will report to President Eisenhower in Geneva Saturday night on his Paris discussions.

The three top diplomats of the U.S., Britain and France also will consult with their colleagues on the North Atlantic Treaty Council so that the other members of the Atlantic alliance which the chiefs of state will take up in the Swiss City beginning Monday.

The three key and inter-related problems are German unification, disarmament and a European Security System.

Military Reserve Bill Called Up For Debate

WASHINGTON (INS). — A compromise militar reserve bill was clled up for Senate debate today with Republican leaders undecided on whether to fight for changes urged b the Pentagon.

Their strategy will probably hinge on the outcome of a conference expected to take place before the Senate meets between assistant defense secretary Carter Burgess and Sen. Leverett Saltonstall, Mass., top Republican on the Senate Armed Services Committee.

Whether Saltonstall will propose the amendments desired by the Pentagon depends largely on the case Burgess makes, although GOP leaders indicated they will also check to see if they have the vote to win any fight they may put up.

One influential Republican explained there would be no sense in making an attempt to amend the bill approved yesterday by the Armed Services Committee unless there is a chance of success.

Burgess has been telling individual Senators he fears one provision of the compromise bill will tend to cut down on voluntary enlistments in the regular armed forces.

This privision would permit boys from 17 to 20 to volunteer for six months of active training, after which they would have to spend seven and one-half years in the ready reserves.

Burgess wants this group limited to youth between 17 and 18-½, fearing the higher age bracket will reduce voluntary enlistments in the Navy and Air Force.

It is understood that armed services committee chairman Richard B. Russell (O) Ga., is not absolutely insistent on this provision although he made "no commitments" to accept any changes in the bill during a conference with Burgess yesterday.

Search For Missing Scout Is Continued

MUSKEGON, Mich. (INS).—The search for 12-year-old Peter Gorham, the Evanston, Ill., Boy Scout who has been missing for nine days, continued along the Michigan shoreline today.

He vanished from a camp on Duck Lake, near Muskegon, and was seen at least once riding on a bus.

Since then hundreds of volunteers, state police and county authorities have pressed the search for young Gorham without success.

Sgt. Milton Swingle of the Michigan State Police at Grand Haven is directing the widespread search. He has set up headquarters at the Boy Scout camp.

The youth, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick A. Gorham, is not believed to have met with foul play but Sgt. Swingle said all possibilities are being checked, including the theory he may be hitchhiking to a relative's home in the West.

Add Variety To Parties With These

Cocoa Brown Beauties are a new delicacy which add variety to your summer parties.

A dessert like this one is a delight to the eye and simple to prepare . . . yet something just a bit different for home parties.

Fill the shells with your favorite ice cream and sprinkle with chopped nuts to make this dessert a real winner.

COCOA MERINGUE SHELLS

1 tablespoon cocoa
¾ cup sugar
3 egg whites
Dash of salt
¾ teaspoon vinegar
¾ teaspoon vanilla

Combine cocoa and sugar. Beat egg whites with salt until foamy throughout. Add cocoa-sugar mixture, 2 tablespoons at a time, beating until meringue will stand in stiff peaks. Add vinegar and vanilla and beat well. (Entire beating process takes about 10 minutes.)

Using a spoon or pastry tube, shape meringue in rounds on unglazed paper on baking sheet, making each about 3 inches in diameter and 1¼ inches high. With a spoon, make a depression in center of each. Bake in slow oven (300 degrees F.) 30 to 35 minutes. Cool and remove from paper. Makes 6 to 8 meringue shells.

Highlights and Sidelights FROM Your State CAPITOL

By VERN SANFORD
Texas Press Association

AUSTIN, Tex. — Every outward sign of courtroom confidence is being exhibited by Bascom Giles.

His trial on charges of taking $6,800 from the state, in connection with a Kinney County land deal, got under way July 5. Almost the entire first week was spent in selecting jurors.

More than 50 witnesses were subpoenaed by the state before the trial began, but Giles' attorneys refused to show their hands by issuing early subpoenas.

Testimony is expected to consume the greater part of two weeks.

Giles, who originated the $100,000,000 veterans land program, and administered it until Jan. 1 of this year, appears to be as cool and confident as any man in the room.

Among those representing him is his son, Rogan. Others are former state senator Clint Small Sr., Clint Small Jr., and Polk Shelton. All are Austin attorneys.

Representing the state is Les Procter, district attorney of Travis County, and his two assistants, John Allen and Bob Smith.

Procter sought, but did not receive, funds from the legislature to hire extra staff members for the veterans land program cases.

Representatives from the Attorney General's office sat as spectators as the trial got under way. Procter ducked questions as to why they were not participating.

Brady land dealer B. R. Sheffield, indicted jointly with Giles, in the Kinney County deal, awaits trial after Giles. Trials are yet to come, too, in scores of other cases stemming from the sweeping inquiries into the land program, which began last November.

PARR TRIAL STARTS MONDAY

A judge's attack of asthma gave South Texas political boss George Parr a breathing spell last week. But Parr faces additional difficulties in a federal incomes tax evasion case set for July 18 in Austin.

Parr's trial on a conspiracy charge in District Judge John R. Fuchs' court in New Braunfels was indefinitely postponed when the 69-year-old jurist was severely stricken with asthma.

Parr, along with 11 others, is under indictment for misappropriation of Benavides Independent School District funds in Duval County.

DESEGREGATION POLICY SET

It's "hands off" for the State Board of Education, in racial integration of local school districts.

School districts will get their state aid money whether they are segregated or not.

Although offering the assistance of its staff in solving desegregation problems, the board made it clear that no suggestion or direction will be given as to what each school district should do to comply with the U.S. Supreme Court ruling which ended public school segregation.

UT TO OPEN DOORS

University of Texas regents took three momentous steps at their July meeting.

1. They voted immediate admission of all qualified students to all divisions of the graduate school.

2. They voted to admit Negro undergraduate students, beginning with the September, 1956 term, in thes main university; and at the Texas Western College branch in El Paso, this September. Admission to all other branches will be in September of 1956.

3. They also voted to set up restrictions on all admissions, based on examinations and scholastic requirements, effective in 1956.

UT regents also refused to reconsider their earlier rule which banned from the campus automobiles owned by freshmen and sophomore students.

INTERSCHOLASTIC LEAGUE REAPPRAISES

Texas public schools which admit Negroes will not be barred from Interscholastic League activities next year.

This ruling, made last week by the league's executive committee, resulted from a petition from the El Paso system regarding its status. El Paso plans to desegregate next Fall.

Interscholastic League's constitution, framed before the U.S. Supreme Court's ruling against school segregation, limits membership to "any public white school."

INSURANCE RATES LOWERED

Large industrial plants in Texas were promised lower fire insurance rates when the Insurance Commission adopted a new rating plan "for highly protected risks."

Praising the recently enacted insurance code, the commission said it is "one of the best in the nation" and every loophole in Texas insurance laws "has been closed."

DANIEL STILL HEDGING

U.S. Sen. Price Daniel, in Austin for a few days of visiting, dodged questions about his future political plans.

He declared he had neither "warmed up nor cooled off" in regard to a possible race for the Texas governorship. His decision, he said, cvannot be made until after the first of the year.

Two Ex-Convicts With $87,000 Are Being Held

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (INS). — Two ex-convicts who baffled Las Vegas police by refusing to disclose the source of an $87,000 bankroll are being held in different parts of the nation today in connection with a Philadelphia murder-robbery.

Frank Ellsworth, 36, was arrested last night in Omaha, Neb., and Ray Wilson, 33, was picked up a half-hour after he was released by Las Vegas police.

Both men had won their freedom on writs of habeas corpus Ellsworth Monday and Wilson yesterday. The two men are being held for Philadelphia. Police who want to question them about the slaying of Mrs. Lulubel Rossman, whose body was found in a hotel room July 4. Ellsworth's arrest in Omaha came after police received a tip from International News Service that he was wanted by Philadelphia police. Officers said they had seen Ellsworth earlier in the day but until the INS tip was received they had no idea he was wanted.

Las Vegas chief of detectives B. J. Handlon said Philadelphia authorities must have "hot evidence" in the case. He said they apparently "checked the money with serial numbers of the Philadelphia federal reserve bank."

Handlon said Philadelphia police believe $86,000 was stolen from Mrs. Rosman.

Ellsworth and Wilson appeared in Las Vegas last weekend and were arrested when they seemed more interested in cashing $100 bills than in gambling. Police found $87,000 in new bills and gambling chips in their room.

Public Safety Dept. Recruiting Men For Highway Patrol

AUSTIN — Homer Garrison Jr. director of the Texas Department of Public Safety, announced today that the Texas Highway Patrol will accept application between now and July 25 for young Texans for appointment to the Texas Highway patrol.

Garrison said that examinations for appointment to the Patrol recruit training school will be given at various points in the state early in August. Some 100 vacancies, due to the action of the Texas Legislature in increasing the Texas Highway Patrol personnel, will be filled from the roster of those qualified.

The Public Safety Director invites all young men who are interested in a career of law enforcement to make application as early as possible. He pointed out that they must be between 21 and 35 years of age, inclusive, have a high school education, be at least 5 feet 8 inches in height and weight not less than two nor more than three and one-half pounds per inch of height.

Garrison emphasibed, too, that applicants must have been citizens of Texas for at least a year and they must be of good moral character and in perfect physical condition and able to withstand a rigid character investigation.

Garrson further emphasized that these applicants, if accepted for this Service, will receive vacation time, sick leave, if necessary, and will be covered by the State Retirement Act and the Federal Social Security Act.

Application forms, Garrison said may be obtained from all Texas Highway Patrol District Officers or by writing directly to W. J. Elliott, Chief, Texas Highway Patrol, at Austin.

Soups May Be Served Hot Or Cold

Convertible foods . . . like convertible cars . . . fit right in with relaxed summer living. Soup, for example, can come out hot as noonday sun, or cool as an Arctic breeze.

Stack up a stock of "convertible" soups in your larder. You can choose from a goodly number of the regular canned ones. Super to serve cold as well as hot are: Asparagus. Cream of chicken. Black Bean. Consomme (jells when cold) Tomato.

The new frozen soups are also convertible. For instance, frozen potato soup tastes remarkably good either piping hot or icy cold. Frozen shrimp soup and green pea (with ham) have the same happy faculty.

You can go along, serenely confident about summer lunches and suppers when soup's in easy reach. Dawns a day that's a scorcher; hurry soup into the refrigerator to chill. Blows up a cold breezy storm; "hotten" up a kettle of your favorite chowder.

To chill soup, simply blend it with as much milk or water as you like. Pop the container into refrigerator (a plastic shaker is good). It's best to allow 4 hours for chilling; then give mixture another good stir and ladle into bowl. Keep cans of consomme on tap in the refrigerator at all times. It will jell into a sparkling amber delicacy when cans are chilled just as is (without added liquid).

Enjoy summer, merrily eating this way:

A GOOD MAN IS HARD TO FIND

. . . That is why we are willing to make this unusual offer for the right salesman to fill our vacancy in this county.

Frankly, the type of man we want is worth from $8,000 to $15,000 in a year, and he deserves every dollar he gets and more. The kind of man we are looking for:

1. Over 20 years old, neat, conscientious.
2. Prefer knowledge of real estate, such as sale of new houses or construction experience.
3. Sales experience valuable but not required.
4. Owns serviceable transportation and knowledge of this area.

Top men should make from $8,000 to $15,000 in a year.

Our pay checks are mailed weekly and in advance; we take care of all deliveries, collections and service.

If you are really serious about making good in a new field, then you are invited to write a letter to me personally, telling about yourself and your experience. Personal interview arranged. All replies confidential . . . SARGENT HILL, Sales Manager, Dept. A, P. O. Box 7265, Dallas, Texas.

Homemade Cream Pie For Tasty Summer Dessert

You'll discover this dessert has the wonderful flavor of real, homemade coconut cream pie. With this recipe you can enjoy the same old fashioned goodness—without having to struggle with a pie crust.

Broiled Chicken
Broiled Garlic Tomato Halves
Frenched Green Beans
Hot Buttered Carrots
Favorite Rolls
Coconut Cream Meringue Pudding

INGREDIENTS:

3 cups milk
2-3 cup uncooked white rice
¾ cup beet or cane sugar
2 eggs, separated
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 cup moist shredded coconut

Method: Put the milk and rice in a 2-quart saucepan. Stir well. Put over a medium heat. When bubbles appear around the edges of the saucepan, stir well. Turn the heat as low as possible. Cover with a lid and leave over this low heat 45 to 50 minutes or until most of the milk cooks into the rice. Stir several times during the cooking.

Remove saucepan from heat. Stir in the sugar. Beat the egg yolks well. Stir some of the hot mixture into the yolks. Pour back into the saucepan. Stir in the vanilla and the coconut. Beat the egg whites until stiff. Pour the hot pudding into the egg whites and mix together.

Serve at once or cover in the refrigerator until time to serve. If pudding becomes thicker than desired, stir in a small amount of milk or cream.

This recipe makes 12 servings.
